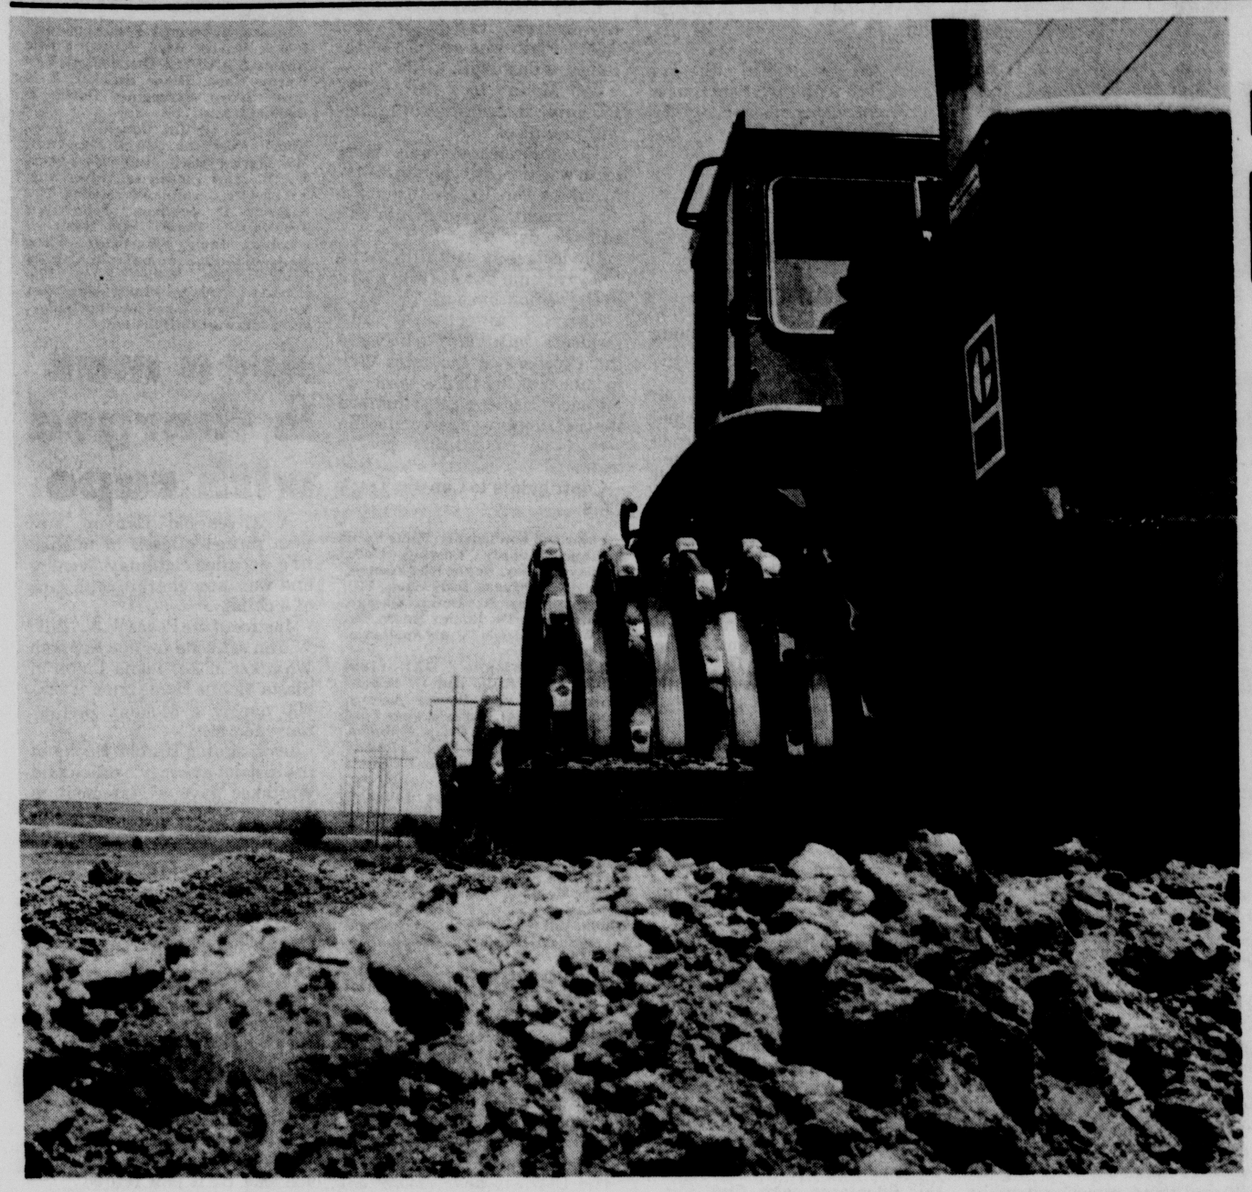
The Canyon News

Volume 80, No. 18 | Canyon, Texas | Thursday, July 29, 1976 | 8 Pages | 15 Cents.



Earth moving and working equipment has begun to shape the landscape just south of the outbuildings on the West Texas State University farm north of Canyon on construction of a new overpass to take Hunsley Road over U.S. 87, then under the Santa Fe Railway tracks and west to Washington Street. It is a project of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Due to federal mandate

Facility for truants, runaways needed

Randall County should begin planning now for the possible provision of special facilities to house truant and runaway juveniles who cannot be jailed after September 1977, a report to commissioners court says.

The report, prepared as a warning by the Randall County Juvenile Probation Office, will be delivered commissioners in the near future, according to Officer Ronnie Cowart.

Cowart recommends the county go in with other area counties to provide a special facility for handling truant and runaway juveniles when detention in lock-up facilities is outlawed next year.

The alternative, he says, is to allow truants and runaways virtually total freedom of action. It's an alternative he would not recommend.

Cowart warns in the report that after September 1977 truants and runaway juveniles can no longer by placed in jails or other lock-up type facilities under a 1974 federal law. The law provides that they be held in "sheltered facilities."

But, he says, Panhandle agencies now provide room for only four runaway or truant juveniles per day in sheltered facilities, far below the number which would be required.

The 1974 federal law, the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act, requires that by September of 1977 "juveniles who are charged with or have committed offenses that would not be criminal if committed by an adult shall not be placed in juvenile detention or correctional facilities, but must be placed in sheltered facilities."

The feds threaten removal of federal funds from the state and local governments if the law is not followed.

Cowart said the law refers to juveniles in runaway or truant status, those being the only offenses which might be committed by juveniles which would not be criminal if committed by adults under Texas law.

"The requirement is that by September of 1977, or soon thereafter, runaways and truants may no longer by place in jails, juvenile detention homes, or juvenile correctional facilities," the report states. "Neither the Act nor (Law Enforcement Administration Agency) guidelines allow for even temporary detention of a status offender in a secure facility."

According to the report, the impact of the act locally will mean that area police and sheriff's departments will not be able to place truants and runaways in currently certified detention facilities.

"All of these agencies will need to find alternative shelter facilities, or not detain status offenders," the report says.

The report says there are currently only three sheltered type facilities in the Panhandle, one in Pampa for long-term care, one in Amarillo for short-term care, and one in Amarillo with only four beds available.

Cowart points to the crux of the problem in the report when he notes that in 1975, the Amarillo Police Department contacted 735 truants and runaways and that 75 per cent of all the juveniles detained by that agency in 1975 were truants and runaways.

The report anticipates that initial responses to the 1977 mandate will probably mean law enforcement agencies will detain fewer runaways and truants, probation departments will have to develop a 24-hour referral capability and probation departments will have to comply with admission requirements of sheltered facilities.

Hair code, punishment 2 areas of non-compliance for schools

The Canyon School District is not complying with the tenets of Title IX in requirements regarding hair length for boys, corporal punishment, co-educational physical education and several other areas, administrative assistant W.V. McAlpin said Tuesday.

McAlpin is still in the process of compiling results from a self-evaluation undertaken during the spring and summer to determine compliance with the controversial act, which mandates non-discrimination in school districts which accept federal funds.

He said he would report to the Canyon School Board Tuesday on how CISD shapes up under Title IX and will make recommendations on changes which should or could be made to bring the district into compliance with the language of the law.

Among the areas McAlpin has already identified as not being in compliance with the title are:

* Hair length requirements for boys
* Corporal punishment policies for boys and girls
* Physical education classes for boys and girls
* Review of audio-visual materials
* Employment lists for vocational education jobs

McAlpin said the federal Office of Civil Rights requires that the school district file a statement of assurance of compliance with the law by Sept. 30. The statement would assure the OCR that the district intends to comply with the law.

He said it is his belief that if the district intends to continue receiving federal funding it must comply with the rules established by the civil rights office under Title IX. Currently, the district accepts federal funds in providing subsidized lunches for students.

McAlpin said he will make recommendations Tuesday night but it will be up to the school board to decide when and if the district will comply.

An OCR official speaking last spring at West Texas State University told The News the Canyon district's hair code for students would not comply with the Title IX rules.

The current dress code stipulates that boy hair length must not touch the collar in back and prohibits moustaches and beards. There is no similar hair code for girl students.

The OCR official said the double standard in hair length requirements is outlawed under Title IX.

The school board has adamantly stuck by its hair length rules for boys, even when last summer junior high and high school principals suggested a relaxation of the regulations.

McAlpin said the district also maintains a double standard in providing corporal punishment, with corporal punishment being acceptable procedure on boy students but not applicable to girl students.

He said the board might resolve that problem by adopting a policy which would make corporal punishment optional to

County spending running even

Randall County officials spent slightly over half their budgeted funds during the first six months of the year, a report from County Auditor Betty Hodges shows.

Her figures indicate officials spent 53 per cent of the budgeted funds during the first half of the year or $842,194.

If spending continues at the same rate, the county should end the fiscal year, which this year ends Sept. 30, with a surplus of more than a half million dollars.

While county commissioners have publicly discounted the possibility of a windfall of a half million dollars at the close of the short fiscal year, the figures would tend to bear out the possibility that the funds will be available.

Commissioners had budgeted $1,584,855 for expenditure during the fiscal year which began Jan. 1 and which ends at the end of September. The budget included a built-in surplus of $176,844., because income was estimated for the year at $1.76 million.

Mrs. Hodges' figures indicate most county departments are running close to the 50 per cent mark in expenditures for the first half of the year. Several functions, however, are spending at a level well above the 50 per cent figure.

The building operation account, for example, has expenditures for the first six months totalling $42,900. The budget for that function calls for an expenditure for the year of only $48,848.

Likewise, general government spending is well over even the amount budgeted for the full year just in the first six months. General government function has accounted for expenditures totalling $43,000 for the first half of the year. The budget for the function calls for expenditures of $26,700.

Other county offices and functions and their expenditures and budgets are as follows:

New superintendent of schools to be named soon, Keeling says

Canyon School Board members are expected to name a new superintendent of schools shortly after the first of the month, Board President Tom Keeling said Tuesday.

Keeling said he anticipates the board will meet in special session behind closed doors later this week and early next week to continue interviewing candidates for the post.

The board met with two candidates in executive session Tuesday evening and night.

Keeling said the board will interview between four and eight candidates for the position being vacated by Jerry Jacobs, who has accepted a similar position in Raymondville.

As of a week ago, the board had received 16 applications for the job.

The board met from 6 p.m. to about midnight Tuesday to interview two hopefuls.

Jacobs resigned earlier this month and the board voted to accept the resignation effective in 30 days or whenever Jacobs' help was no longer needed in procuring a bond rating and selling bonds for construction of a new elementary school and remodelling of Canyon High School.

The board has apparently ruled out the promotion of any administrator currently in the Canyon school district. A list of criteria released by the board three weeks ago concerning the acceptance of applications for the post included a proviso that any acceptable candidate must have at least five years experience as a superintendent or assistant superintendent in public schools.

In addition, the acceptable applicant must hold a master's degree and must be between the ages of 35 and 50.

The board is scheduled to meet in regular session Tuesday night and is expected to discuss the trip last weekend to New York City to obtain a bond rating for the sale of $3 million in bonds.

Keeling headed a delegation consisting of Jacobs, School Business Manager Ronnie Wood, Financial Advisor Bob Davis, and Southwestern Public Service Co. Manager Joe Gidden to two financial firms in New York for bond rating interviews.

The group is hoping to obtain an "A-1" bond rating for the issue. The school district currently has an "A" rating.

The higher rating could mean a substantial savings in interest payments to the district over the 15-year pay-out period for the bonds.

The bonds will be sold Aug. 17, the same day bids for construction of a new elementary school will be opened.

No housing for fall seen here

Every year it's the same story, and this year is no different. Except it's a bit earlier.

The story is housing, or rather the lack of it in Canyon.

For Canyon Chamber of Commerce Manager Roland Black August mails traditionally bring a deluge of inquiries concerning rental housing availability in Canyon. This year, though, the July mails have Black wondering what August could bring.

A stack of three dozen letters as well as numerous personal visits and telephone calls tell Black the rental housing situation in the city hasn't lessened with time.

"It'll be tight from now on," he predicted Monday. "We just don't have enough houses to meet the demand."

As in years past, many requests are from potential students at West Texas State University anxious to find housing for the fall term.

But, increasingly, Black says, inquiries are also coming from persons in Amarillo or outside the general area concerning housing in the city.

So great has been the demand from families desiring information about Canyon as a place to live that Black said he will have to order a second printing of community profile information packets he prepares annually.

Black said he's sent out 140 community profile packets so far this year.

That Canyon has become a popular spot for many is illustrated in the number of new homes under construction this year within the city limits. As of July 1, 93 new homes had gone under construction in 1976, a total nearing the total for the full year of 1975, when 109 houses were begun.

Nevertheless, rental houses and apartments continue as a problem particularly for incoming students, Black says.

He said he currently knows of only one three-bedroom home for rent in the city. And, he said, apparently all apartments are filled.

Registration for the university's fall term is Aug. 27-28.

As 'alternative'

Church offers kindergarten

Canyon parents will have a choice on where to send their children for kindergarten next fall.

The First Baptist Church will offer an "alternative" kindergarten program beginning in September.

Donna Moore, who will teach in the church's kindergarten program, said the church offering will be a standard curriculum with children in classes of 15 to 16 children each.

The church program will apparently contrast with the kindergarten program to be offered by Canyon Independent School District for the fall.

Ms. Moore said the church kindergarten program will not be an open concept program.

Public school kindergarten classes will go into a remodeled portion of the school administration building in downtown Canyon for the fall.

Public school officials said last spring the kindergarten will be conducted in an open classroom, but that students will have their own teacher.

The kindergarten curriculum is to remain as it has been in the past, Mrs. Vondean McGregor, elementary curriculum coordinator, told The News last spring. She said the open classroom approach would be used only until more room could be had through construction of a new elementary school.

The open classroom is to have several learning centers and teachers will be responsible for

Farmers face new safety laws of OSHA by October

National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, finds farmers concerned about several new OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) regulations.

The "guarding and shielding" regulation was to have gone into effect this summer, but implementation has been delayed until Oct. 25. The regulation does not apply to equipment manufactured before Oct. 25, 1976.

On this date "new laws" will go into effect requiring owners of farm equipment to replace guards on all PTO units. If the specified guard cannot be obtained, a replacement must be made.

The regulation will also require equipment made after Oct. 25 to have complete guards on all mesh-points such as chains, pulleys and belts at manufacture.

Informational and educational materials concerning the new regulations have been sent to OSHA regional offices and to the USDA for distribution to state safety specialists in the offices of the agricultural extension service.

Extension agents will use written materials and a slide-tape presentation to explain the new regulations to farmers and ranchers.

"Educate For Safety" is the theme for National Farm Safety Week, sponsored annually by the National Safety Council. The council points out that recognizing hazards and risky situations, then knowing what to do about them (and doing it) is the best insurance against accidents.

Common sense and experience are important, but not enough: it takes knowledge and a receptiveness to safety information to build on that knowledge and make it work on the farm.

The NSC urges farmers to:

* Read safety articles in newspapers and magazines.
* Read and heed instruction manuals and product labels.
* Be informed on what to do in case of severe weather, fire, poisoning, bleeding, drowning, etc. Learn first aid and resuscitation methods.
* Enroll in NSC's Defensive Driving Course and Agricultural Safety Seminar.
* Teach children what is safe and unsafe, and teach them how to deal with hazards and risky situations that might occur while performing chores or at play. Make sure they know how to swim.
* Encourage young people to take part in safety activities of 4-H, FFA, Scouts, Farm Bureau and other organizations. Farm youth should enroll in training programs on tractor and farm machinery safety sponsored by extension and vo-ag, driver education and first aid training.
* Train family and employed workers in the safe way to do every job.
* Set a good example to family and employees through safe actions and attitudes.
* Share knowledge and enthusiasm for safety with neighbors.
* Volunteer your services and work for a safer community.

Water pump break cause for concern

The city's largest water pump burned out last Thursday, cutting Canyon's water capacity in half.

City water department workers kept a 24-hour watch on the other three pumps, monitoring the well output until the largest pump was put back in service Sunday afternoon.

Few persons knew about the breakdown.

West Texas State University and the Canyon schools were asked not to water lawns while the pump was out. This reduced by about one-third the demand for water in the city, Glen Metcalf, city manager, said.

"By minimizing the water use this way, there was plenty of water for normal household use," he said.

The major concern was the possibility of a large fire or a break in a water main. However, no additional stress was placed on the system during the shortage.

The booster pump forces water through the system, including lifting it into the elevated storage tanks. When the motor burned out Thursday, the normal capacity was reduced from 42,000 gallons a minute to about 24,000 gallons a minute, said water department supervisor Robert Rogers.

The same pump burned out about five years ago, Rogers said.

But, he said, this is the first time a major break has happened in the summer.

Church plans cottage meet

A cottage meeting will be held July 30 from 7-8 p.m. by the Canyon branch of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

The public is welcomed to attend at the church's facility at the corner of the Canyon E-way and Rockwell Road.

Two short films, "Man's Search for Happiness" and "Strengthening the Home" will be shown. The latter film, acclaimed since its first appearance at the New York World's Fair, stresses the importance of the family unit in society.

Rural accidents are reported

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 16 accidents on rural highways in Randall County during the month of June, 1976, according to Sergeant Lancaster, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and 16 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first six months of 1976 shows a total of 89 accidents resulting in two persons killed and 75 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for June, 1976, shows a total of 549 accidents resulting in ten persons killed and 336 injured, as compared to June, 1975, with 572 accidents resulting in 25 persons killed and 355 persons injured. This was 23 less accidents, 15 less killed, and 19 less injured in 1976 at the same period of time.

The ten traffic deaths for the month of June, 1976, occurred in the following counties: three in Jack; two in Potter; and one each in Deaf Smith, Hutchinson, Wheeler, Clay and Parker.

Vandals are trouble for city facilities

Public rest rooms are nothing but a pot of trouble, the city is finding out.

Since the beginning of baseball season, the city has had to install two new toilets to replace ones destroyed by vandals, city manager Glen Metcalf said.

Dirt, baseballs and a variety of other damaging substances have been flushed down the drain of toilets and wash basins, he said.

The city accepted the responsibility for maintenance of the two public rest rooms at the baseball diamonds. The toilet facilities were originally built and maintained by parents of the Little League players.

But when maintenance and repair became too great a burden, the rest rooms were pad locked.

Disney film free to public

Going into its last month of summer Sunday afternoon film fun, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will present Walt Disney's "The Legend of Lobo" at 2:30 and 4 p.m., Sunday.

Admission is free to this nature film, which will be shown in the second floor lecture room in the main museum building.

The desperate life of a hunted wolf in the 1890s is personified in this 68-minute color film. Cattlemen kill Lobo the wolf's parents, and later capture his mate. Lobo eventually realizes that he must lead his wolf pack to those distant lands safe from man.

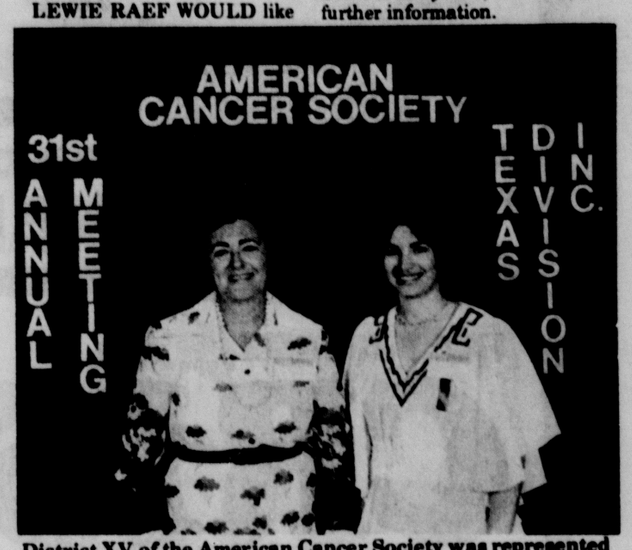
State officer to speak here

Calvin Shelton, state officer for the Texas Young Farmers Association, will address a local gathering of the Randall County Young Farmers-Ranchers and their wives tonight, July 29, at Conner Park.

The meeting will include an ice cream social with activities set to begin at 8 p.m. in Conner Park. Contact Mary Cox, 655-7459, for further information.



District XV of the American Cancer Society was represented by several members of the Randall County unit of the American Cancer Society at a recent divisional meeting in Dallas. Pictured are Mrs. Claude Currie of the state public education committee and Mrs. Steve Hines of the district public information committee. Both are from Canyon and were joined by other unit members including: Dr. and Mrs. T. Paige Carruth, Mr. and Mrs. John Childs and Dr. Myron Dees.

Eagle standout in bowl game

Canyon High School graduate Wayne Robinson, a stand-out linebacker for the 1975 Eagles, is scheduled to play for the West team in the annual Greenbelt Bowl on Aug. 6 at Childress.

Robinson, who graduated last May from CHS, is to report for practice sessions Sunday. Game time is 8 p.m. at Childress Fair Park.

He will be playing guard in the game and will be coached by Jack Scott and Fred Bleil of Eastern New Mexico University at Portales.

Edith McCurry, also of the Canyon area, will be a candidate for queen of the bowl game. She will compete against other candidates in the annual queen contest at 8:30 p.m. August 5 and the winners will be presented during the bowl game.

Robinson was a first team all-district selection last year at linebacker.

CHS Coach Deane Wright had this to say of Robinson's play following the 1975 season: "Wayne was our leader on defense. He called all the defensive plays and he was the leading tackler in every ball game. On our scoring sheets he was the leading scorer all year long. He's really dedicated. He had a bad knee that had to be taped every day but he never missed a day."

Wedding gifts are presented

Wedding gifts were presented to Miss Marilyn Kerr, bride-elect of Larry Dean Trevathan, Saturday evening at a miscellaneous bridal shower held in fellowship hall of Southwest Baptist Church at 45th and Crockett, Amarillo.

Miss Kerr and her fiance will exchange marriage vows in the church's sanctuary Saturday evening, July 31.

The honoree opened gifts during the evening with the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Ada Long of Maple, assisting. Also aiding the bride-elect were her sisters, Miss Catherine Kerr and Mrs. Billy Bell, both of Canyon.

A lace cloth over blue covered the serving table as guests were served bridal punch, individual cake squares, nuts and mints. Centering the table was a china painted pitcher and saucer set filled with a floral arrangement of blue tinted carnations and white daisies carrying out the bride-elect's chosen color scheme. The centerpiece was presented as a gift to the bride.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Carol Lamb, DeEva Boyles and Chris Shelton.

PO talk is rumor

There is no basis for the rumor that postal service here will be downgraded if plans for construction of a new post office fall through, acting district manager Dale Fowlkes said Friday.

"We are not here to make people mad at us," the former Canyon resident said. Fowlkes said he lived in Canyon three years until his transfer to Oklahoma City.

No date has been set for a public hearing. Postal officials from both Amarillo and Oklahoma City will, however, meet with the public before a decision is reached, he said.

Fowlkes said postal authorities have considered at least four sites in Canyon for a new, larger post office.

The site chosen will be the most economically feasible, he said.

The present post office built during the Depression contains only about a third of the space needed to provide postal service, he said.

Fowlkes pointed out that Canyon is growing rapidly and expanded postal facilities will be even more important in the future.

A group of residents here led by Jim Palmer hope to block construction of a new post office on the block just west of the central business district between Fourth and Fifth Avenues. They have submitted petitions, contacted postal officials in Dallas and Oklahoma City and protested to city commissioners.

City gets safety award

The city of Canyon received a Four Year Achievement Award for pedestrian safety from the American Automobile Association on Tuesday.

The award, presented by Gerri Paul of the Amarillo office of the Panhandle-Plains Auto Club, was accepted by city manager Glen Metcalf in behalf of the city.

The AAA program, the only one of its kind, focuses national and local attention on pedestrian safety needs. Cities and states are recognized for superior achievement in pedestrian death and injury records.

Awards are given on the basis of pedestrian records and evaluations of seven key areas: maintenance of efficient records, safety legislation, enforcement, traffic engineering, traffic safety organization, quality of school traffic safety programs, and active public information and education programs.

Metcalf commented, "With all the new people moving to Canyon, new streets, signs and so on, it's difficult to control pedestrian traffic."

He credited the police department and police chief Al Stewart with being the major factor in the city's receipt of the award. Metcalf said the police department's strict enforcement of traffic laws and bicycle safety program were of particular benefit to city pedestrians.

He said the achievement reflected a joint effort of many individuals and also mentioned the important role played by the crosswalk guard in maintaining the record.

Sam Bell, general manager for Panhandle-Plains Auto Club, noted that nearly 20 per cent of all traffic fatalities are pedestrians. AAA, through this program, hopes to increase public awareness of the need for strong pedestrian safety projects.

Paul said, "What we wanted to do is make the public aware." She related that AAA has been instrumental in bringing about pedestrian safety legislation.

She also mentioned AAA's bicycle program, including pamphlets, a film and teacher's guide which may help cities in improving existing safety programs or setting up new programs.

According to Bell, the four-year achievement award was one of the 287 top awards and citations presented by AAA in its 37th annual pedestrian safety inventory.

A record 2,462 cities and 31 states participated in the 1975 survey.

SCS program is extended

Authorization has been granted to continue operations of the Great Plains Conservation Program, according to Bill Casteel, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Canyon.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the Great Plains Conservation Act into law on August 7, 1956. Since then, more than 50,000 farmers and ranchers in ten states have entered into long-term contracts with the U.S. Department of Agriculture under terms of the legislature.

Under the legislation, producers agree to practice conservation techniques on every acre of their land, including improving rangeland, installing minimum-tillage farming systems, terracing, establishing grassed waterways, or converting erosion-prone cropland to grass.

The program is applicable to 123 counties in Texas, including Randall County. Since the program began in Randall County, 170 written contracts have been carried out or are in the process of being completed on 138,969 acres.

taken, there will still be a shortage of placement alternatives," the report states. "Probation departments in the Panhandle will be in competition for the four beds at the (Amarillo) Emergency Shelter and the limited access to the Opportunity House (in Amarillo) and Genesis House (in Pampa)."

Three other alternatives are also available, should the local agencies decline from providing facilities. One would be for law enforcement and correctional personnel to ignore runaways and truants. Another would be to push for legislation criminalizing the behavior so the juveniles could be detained in lock-up facilities. The third would be to view truants and runaways as emotionally disturbed, increasing hospitalization as a substitute for detention.

However, the report suggests a coordinated and cooperative effort in the area to construct shelter facilities for truants and runaways.

Integration of girls and boys in physical education classes at the high school level would also insure compliance in that area, he said. In addition, coed classes should be taught by both men and women teachers.

McAlpin said for strict compliance with the title, the district should also ensure that all audio-visual material to be used in classroom instruction is reviewed prior to showing to students so the material can be determined not to stereotype men and women.

Students, teachers and administrators participated in the self-evaluation of the district's policies and activities. They filled out questionnaires provided by the Texas Education Agency.

their own students, Mrs. McGregor said last spring.

Moveable book cases will also be available to provide partitioning if desired.

The First Baptist Church effort in kindergarten was apparently the result of concern expressed by some parents in the Canyon district.

Ms. Moore said the church had been contacted by parents asking if the church would offer a kindergarten program.

The church had offered a kindergarten curriculum several years ago before the public schools began offering a similar program.

Ms. Moore said the church program begins the Tuesday following Labor Day in September. Cost of the program is $30 per student per month.

The public school program is free of charge.

Both are offered on half-day basis five days each week.

Reporter travels to Denver meeting

By MARY NEAL HENRY

THE AMERICAN NATIONAL CowBelle Creed reads: "Believing that the livestock industry is of basic importance to world existence, we, the AMERICAN NATIONAL COWBELLES, dedicate ourselves to support it with our labor and finances; to promote it through information and publicity; to encourage its producers with our understanding and love; to do all in our power to instill in the coming generation the love of the land and of life, the humility and awe before Nature, and the hope and faith in the future that is inherent in cattlemen. This ably describes those women from over the United States who met in Denver last week for the Mid-Year meeting of ANCB.

My daughters, Sheri and Angelique, accompanied me on the trip. While I sat through numerous meetings, they toured Colorado and the Denver area in particular. They met Ann and Nan Bradshaw from Abilene. Together they drove up Mount Evans and played in the snow — in their shorts. We ate at Casa Bonita, The Old Spaghetti Factory, and the Kings Room of the Brown Palace Hotel. We visited the Mint (finally, after three consecutive summers), and Laterimer's Square.

The ANCB moved to larger quarters for their offices in Denver. Membership has increased to 17,000 and is still growing rapidly. New office furniture was purchased.

Plans were made for the 25th anniversary celebration of ANCB to be held at the Annual Convention in Atlanta, Georgia, in 1977. A history will be written and a book published.

The National Beef Cookoff will be held in Salt Lake City, Utah, on Sept. 15, 16 and 17. Forty-two states have entered that contest.

The most important subject of the convention was the Beef Referendum which will occur next spring. Cattlemen are the first group to ever have to finance their own referendum. This will be done by the sale of Beef Buttons which say "Keep Beef King." These sell for $1 and everyone is wearing them. Why not? In this election year and 200th celebration of the birthday of America, what could be more nostalgic than a campaign button!!!

Every cattleman should vote FOR the beef referendum. Only three-tenths of one per cent or 30 cents of every $100 will go for beef research and information and advertising. The point of slaughter will be the only collection agency. Each purchaser simply deducts the .3 per cent on every head. This distributes the cost of the program equally among all those involved in the cattle industry.

The beef referendum will not affect the consumer. Most of those not involved in agriculture only understand the cost added basis of a product. The person in agriculture is the only one who buys retail and sells wholesale.

The girls and I enjoyed the trip — AND THE PEOPLE.

Tank truck overturns

A tanker filled with anhydrous ammonia overturned about seven miles south of Canyon Tuesday night but the driver, Archie Draper of Amarillo, escaped with only minor cuts.

Canyon firemen and deputies stood watch over the tanker for several hours waiting for another tanker to take on the compressed gas load. Anhydrous ammonia is very volatile.

Some gas leaked from the overturned truck, Canyon firemen said.

According to DPS officer Jim Humphries, the driver fell asleep at the wheel.

New reporter joins staff

West Texas State University senior Pat Althen joins The Canyon News staff as a reporter.

She will graduate in August with a bachelor of science degree in psychology and a minor in English.

A pre-law student, Althen will begin work on a master's of social science at WT this fall.

She is assigned a general reporter and photographer and to report news from City Hall.

County school board to focus on new petition

County school trustees will receive and review a petition today from a South Amarillo developer to de-annex his property from the Canyon School District.

The petition is from Richard Reeves, developer of the Sleepy Hollow subdivision south of Puckett Place West, who has asked that the full section of land be annexed to the Amarillo School District.

The petition is the third which county school trustees will have reviewed in recent years. The board has already okayed the de-annexation of a 167-acre tract south of Amarillo and of Puckett Place West, a half-section tract.

Reeves has agreed to pay the Canyon district $200 per acre for potential revenue lost because of the de-annexation and the local board has agreed to the de-annexation.

The property lies within an area delineated in a set of guidelines tentatively adopted by both school boards last spring, guidelines which set potential annexation lands within an area bounded on the south by Hillside Road.

County trustees will also decide today the share of bonded indebtedness which the Amarillo district must assume due to the annexation of the Puckett Place West property. State law requires the annexing district to pay the district from which the property is de-annexed a pro rata share of the bonded indebtedness levied against the property.

The board will meet at 10 a.m. today in the chambers of County Judge Woody Pond, who is ex-officio county school superintendent.

LEAA funds helped here

A federal program that has provided much of the police and sheriff's department communication and other technical equipment will apparently be extended.

Both the Senate and the House of Representatives voted this week to extend the Law Enforcement Assistance Act (LEAA). The bills passed in each house extend the act for differing lengths of time and will be reconciled in conference.

LEAA is approved for five more years by the Senate and for 15 months in the House bill.

Canyon Police Chief Al Stewart is most interested in the education portion of the act and has written to Congress supporting LEAA.

Every city policeman is enrolled now through the LEAA program, which pays tuition and book costs.

Education is vital to the policeman, Stewart says. And in fact, the President's Commission on Law Enforcement has set a goal of a bachelor's degree for every law enforcement officer in the nation by 1981, Stewart said.

Very few policemen would be able to afford additional schooling if the program is cut, Stewart said.

LEAA funds have also purchased communication equipment for local law enforcement, and has provided other equipment like cameras, recording machines, metal detection equipment, narcotics testing apparatus, riot control equipment and video tape recorders.

While funds have been helpful in acquiring new equipment, the grants are accompanied by paperwork that offsets part of the gain, records deputy Merl Strickland said.

A comprehensive report must be submitted each year to show what LEAA money has purchased.

Gene Howe

School time almost here

BY FARRIS ANN MORRISON

ARE YOUR CHILDREN excited about school starting?

Mine are; of course, it's still new to them. Mark will start first grade, and Mandi will be in second — they can't wait.

I can't imagine all day with no children; right now I have visions of just being alone, sitting looking out the window. However, I feel sure that I'll keep busy!

Mothers with older children are probably laughing and saying, "Just wait!"

WE ARE LOSING one of our really active families at Gene Howe. Pat and Bill Seth, Tim and Chris, are moving to Washington, D.C. August 14, but they'll only be gone 'til next June.

Bill is with Bureau of Reclamation and involved with the Department of the Interior's Management Training program. They plan to live in the Virginia area, but no specifics as yet.

There was a party for them at Johnny and Phyllis Hicks' last Thursday. Along with the Hicks, other co-hosts were Billy and Sarah Edwards, Roy and Sherry Cates, Bill and Wilma Hall, Don and Wannette Barron, and Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Seth. It was an all adult party (what luxury!).

Everyone had a wonderful time swimming, playing tennis, visiting, and there were lots of goodies to eat. After such a party, Pat said they have to come back!

BILL AND PAT Seth's son, Bill Dee, got married Saturday, July 24, in Red River. His bride is Kim Renee Matthews of Amarillo. The Seths and Bill Halls went, along with Stan Hall, Mike Johnson, Mark Handley, Tom Connally, Dwight Booth, the Barrons, and the A.D. Seths.

Sounds like they had a convoy. There was a shower for the couple Saturday afternoon before the candlelight ceremony that night in the Red River Inn.

PAT MEIER HAD a nice quiet two weeks at home. Her children Cassie and Don flew to Eagle, Colorado to visit Pat's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Price. Aside from the fact that the plane nearly left Cassie in Pueblo, the trip was without incident.

Jan, Pat's husband, took part of his vacation to help his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Meier, during harvest. The Prices drove the kids to join him in Sydney, Nebraska. They spent their time taking crafts and tennis lessons.

Pat went up for Jan's brother's wedding Saturday. Cassie was flower girl and Don was a junior usher. All told, the Meiers, one part of them or another, have been away about a month.

LINDA AND WAYNE Hawkins, Darrell and Danny, took a week recently (but what a week!). From Amarillo they did Las Vegas, Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, then to San Diego for Sea World.

After going down into Mexico, they returned by way of Carlsbad Caverns. Linda mentioned that the Independence Hall display at Knott's Berry Farm was very impressive, especially in the Bicentennial year.

LARRY AND YVONDA Stokes have had Yvonda's two sisters here, along with their children. Betty Clifford lives in Canada and has a one year old, Brad. Pauline Mays is from Boston and brought Tommy, 7, and Tracy, 9.

Yvonda's two, Chris, 7, and Krystal, 9, had lots of fun getting to know their far-away cousins. Although the visits of Betty and Pauline weren't at the same time, all three girls and five children went to Spearman to visit mother (and grandmother) Mrs. John Pipkin.

One stroke of bad luck: the night they all went to see "TEXAS" was the one night of rain we've had all summer! By the way, we are happy to welcome Krystal to Gene Howe for the first time this year.

CUB PACK 130 had a picnic last Saturday at Camp Don Harrington to wind up the summer. The Cubs and their families swam under the watchful eyes of the Darrell Glenns, who served as life guards.

Several Boy Scouts took some of the newer boys on a hike and tour of the camp. Later a cool shady spot was found for a weiner roast.

Just thought we'd mention to boys who have turned eight that there will be a Cub Scout Rally to sign up new members. This will be in August after school starts.

BOB AND CHERRY Winters, Bobby and Brian, took a break last week with Cherry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cotton. The families went to Lake McClellan, caught some fish, had a picnic, and just generally recharged.

They farm not far from us, and summer to farmers is not an ideal vacation time.

EVERYONE IS EITHER out of town or has already been; sounds like the summer is winding down. Have a nice week.

Holladay joins PESO

Ruth Holladay, coordinator of secondary curriculum for Canyon schools, resigned this week to join the regional education service PESO.

She will be a consultant for communication and dissemination, a new position that takes over some editing functions of other jobs.

In addition, she is to find innovative educational programs throughout the country and present the information to schools in this region, according to Dr. Kenneth Laycock of Canyon, director of PESO.

The effective date of her resignation is to be worked out between Canyon superintendent Jerry Jacobs and Dr. Laycock, but Mrs. Holladay will complete preparations for the opening of school before she begins her new job.

Her successor has not been named.

Promotion for sergeants

Two Army sergeants serving with the ROTC unit at West Texas State University were named this week to the promotion list for the rank of E-7.

SSG Howard Blevins and SSG George Miller were included on the new roster from which promotions will begin in September.

They are among 9,300 Army E-6s chosen after the records of 29,600 sergeants were reviewed.

Blevins, who has been in the service 16 years, with a promotion number of 1,116 will be promoted first.

Miller, who has served in the Army 11 years, was selected for early promotion as one of the top five per cent in his rank. His promotion number is 8,732, which means he will be promoted later than those in the primary zone for consideration but before others of his rank and service time.

Niece's birth is announced

Dan and Mary Price of Canyon announce the birth of a new niece, Christina Marie Lindley who was born July 21 in Columbia, Mo., to proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Lindley.

The baby girl weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces on arrival and grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindley and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Steinfeldt, all from Missouri.
